The Jamaican Prime Minister Visits the Lab

During his visit to Atlanta, on Friday, April 12, 2019, the Prime Minister of Jamaica, the Honorable Andrew Holness, took time to travel to the Gainesville area, primarily to see firsthand the success story of Wincorp, a division of Jamaican Broilers Group. Wincorp has invested and grown profitably in the United States. The executives of Wincorp thought it important to demonstrate to the PM the company's reliance on and the support they receive from the Georgia Poultry Laboratory, and to showcase the cooperation between the public sector and industry that is as efficient as it is necessary. The tour left the Prime Minister feeling proud and motivated to influence and support Jamaican services to its farmers.
